Subject: What do I want from Australia's new broadband network

Hello,

I really don't want ANYTHING from the government's broadband network. I live 2.5 kilometres from Sutherland Exchange and I already get 16mbs download speed and 1mbs upload speed (via iiNet), so I don't see how fibre to the node is going to help me. On the other hand my son who lives at Cobar has to rely on Telstra, he has been with Telstra for a year and still does not have a working email address. So I suggest you spend taxpayer's money on "The Bush" instead and allow some decent competition in that space.

I suppose the filthy rich people who live down at Gray's Point are 5 or 6 kilometres from the exchange will be demanding that taxpayers give them faster broadband, well I would say to them "pay for it yourselves".

Regards,
